[ESTABLISHED 1852.]

PUBLICATION OFFICE, 28 ELM STREET (NEAR DUANE), NEW YORK.

VOL. XLIII., No. 22.

NEW YORK, June 3, 1893.

WHOLE NO. 1114

NOW READY:

A New Book by the author of "A Social Departure" and "An American Girl in London."

The Simple Adventures of a Memsahib.

By SARA JEANNETTE DUNCAN, author of "A Social Departure" and "An American Girl in London." With many illustrations by F. H. Townsend. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

The Standard American Guide-Book.

Appletons' General Guide to the United States.

With numerous maps and illustrations. New edition, revised to date. With appendix devoted to the Columbian Exposition. 12mo, flexible morocco, with tuck, $2.50.

Part I., separately, NEW ENGLAND AND MIDDLE STATES AND CANADA, cloth, $1.25. Part II., SOUTHERN AND WESTERN STATES, cloth, $1.25.

This well-known work, the standard guide-book for foreign visitors as well as American residents, is prepared with the special knowledge of an American. The editor has, during the past two years, travelled extensively over the entire United States for the express purpose of this revision, and has embodied new features and improved old ones as experience and observation have suggested. Itineraries of the principal cities have been prepared by a local expert in each case. Yet not only as a guide for the traveller is the book valuable. At a time when so much interest is taken in the present extraordinary stage of development of our country, the general reader will find the work a manual of description and information difficult to obtain in any other form so compact, complete and authoritative.

Appletons' Guide-Book to Alaska.

By Miss E. R. SCIDMORE. With maps and illustrations. $1.00. (Nearly ready.)

Miss Scidmore's writings on Alaska and the Northwest coast are already most favorably known, and her "Guide-Book" will be found to be an authority. She first describes the Puget Sound country, and then takes the tourist to Vancouver's Island and the Coast of British Columbia on his way to the wonderful scenery and curious aboriginal life of Alaska.

The volume is uniform with the Canadian Guide-Books by Messrs. Roberts and Ingersoll, and these three books together furnish a complete historical and descriptive account of the vast region extending from Newfoundland to the confines of Alaska. They are books for the general reader as well as for the traveller and sportsman.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE ANNA C. REIFSNIDER Book Co., St. Louis, will publish July 1 "Ruby Gladstone, or, a return to earth," a psychic story discussing the question, "Do human souls return to earth?"

AMBLARD & MEYER BROS., New York, have just ready a one-dollar authorized edition (in French) of Bourget's "Cosmopolis." It contains all the illustrations of the holiday edition and is made exclusively for the American market.

GINN & CO. have just issued "Graduate Courses: a handbook for graduate students," with a list of advanced courses given in the chief universities of the United States, compiled by a committee of the Graduate Club of Harvard in co-operation with the Graduate Clubs of Cornell, Johns Hopkins and Yale.

CHARLES L. WEBSTER & CO. will issue immediately in their new series of paper-covered fiction for summer reading "Mr. Billy Downs and His Likes," by Richard Malcolm Johnston; "Don Finimondone, Calabrian Sketches," by Elizabeth Cavazza; and "The Master of Silence: a romance," by Irving Bacheller.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just ready in John R. Musick's Columbian Historical Novels "The Witch of Salem; or, credulity run mad." This story is designed to cover twenty years in the history of this country from 1680 to 1700, including all the principal features and events of the gruesome yet romantic period which witnessed the last spasmodic throes of dying superstition.

ANSON D. F. RANDOLPH & CO. have just ready a dainty souvenir for ocean voyagers entitled "Outward and Homeward Bound." It combines a journal and note-book giving sundry information as to how time is kept on shipboard, log, clouds, etc., and has blank pages for notes and autographs, a colored plate of the smokestacks and flags of the principal transatlantic passenger steamers, charts, etc. The volume is neatly and substantially bound in white canvas.

HARPER & BROTHERS announce the following works as ready for immediate publication: "Picture and Text," by Henry James, a new volume in the series of Harper's American Essayists; "Phillips Brooks," by his brother, the Rev. Arthur Brooks, D.D. (Black and White Series); "The Love-Affairs of an Old Maid," by Lillian Bell; "Practical Lawn Tennis," by James Dwight, M.D., illustrated from instantaneous photographs; and a new revised edition of "Yolande," by William Black.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready "An Adventure in Photography," a bright narrative of the adventures, successes and failures of two amateur photographers, by Octave Thanet; a new and cheaper edition of Dr. Robert Flint's "Theism;" Dr. Holland's "Arthur Bonnieston," in their Yellow Paper Cover Series; in their University Manuals, a work on "Logic," by Prof. William Minto; the second series of "Day and Night Stories," by T. R. Sullivan; and "In Blue Uniform," an army novel, by George I. Putnam.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. have just ready "Thomas Chalmers," by Mrs. M. O. W. Olyphant, in the series of English Leaders of Religion, in which is given a delightful narrative of the important part taken by this great Scotch preacher in great social questions, and his remarkable power and influence as apostle of church extension and work in the slums; "Riverside Song-Book," containing classic American poems set to standard music, edited by W. M. Lawrence and O. Blackman; a revised "History of the United States Flag," by George Henry Preble, reduced in price and specially timely this year, as are also an entirely new edition of "Boston Illustrated," rewritten by E. M. Bacon, with 150 entirely new illustrations, and a map; and Sweetser's standard guide-books for "New England," the "White Mountains and Maritime Provinces." There will also be a new series of "Latin Lessons," by Henry Preble, designed to prepare for the intelligent reading of classical Latin prose.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.: translations, c. tr.: n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tr. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Ambauen, Rev. Andrew, comp. Catechist's manual: chiefly while preparing children for first communion and confirmation; with the approbation of the archbishop of Milwaukee. [New ed.] Milwaukee, Wis., Hoffmann Bros., [1893.] c. '90. 270 p. sq. T. pap., 75 c.

Atherton, Mrs. Gertrude Franklin. The doomsday. N. Y., Tait, Sons & Co., [1893.] 2-263 p. D. cl., $1.

The scene is California. The time the early part of the nineteenth century previous to the admission of California into the Union. At a christening at Governor Alvarado's house in Monterey the characters are introduced, notably Chonita Iturbi y Moncada, called the "Doomswoman" by her friend Eustaquia, because of a supposed dual power to curse or heal humanity. An episode of love between Chonita and Don Diego Estanego has a historical background which pictures the struggle between Mexico and the United States for possession of California. First published in Lippincott's Magazine.

Three old friends, a doctor, a judge and a detective, all about fifty years old, are chatting in the judge's home, when a peculiar sound is heard from the room above. The judge goes to find out the cause and soon returns. Again the sound is heard and he sends his friend, the doctor, to attend his wife, who is indisposed. After a long interval the doctor calls and the judge and detective find him with the body of Mrs. Hollingswood, who has been murdered. The detective work in getting at the mystery makes the story.

Columbia's emblem, Indian corn: a garland of tributes in prose and verse. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1893. c. 3-62 p. il. S. cl., 40 c.; pap., 25 c.

The selections in this little book cover a wide range, and show something of the history and poetry and value of Indian corn. A poem on Columbia's emblem, by Edna Dean Proctor, opens the volume, while Captain John Smith's early account "Of their planted fruits in Virginia, and how they use them," and Governor Bradford's account of "How the Pilgrims found corn at Cape Cod," taken from his "History of Plymouth plantation," are among the interesting extracts bearing directly on the subject.

Consuelo, (pseud.) Saved by a dream. [New issue.] St. Louis, Mo., Anna C. Reisnider Book Co., [1893.] 6-211 p. il. D. (Happy hour lib.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Formerly published by Laird & Lee, Chicago, in the Library of choice fiction.

The principals of the North School and of the Arsenal School, of Hartford, Conn., have prepared this book specially for teachers. Part 1 points out the best children's books on American history and shows how they can be used to best advantage. The lists give titles, publishers and prices of books. In part 2, the bibliography of the subject, including fiction and periodical literature, receives special attention, and the relation of the history of America to its physical geography and to the contemporaneous history of transatlantic States is prominently brought out.

Cummings, G: D. The history of Geronimo's summer campaign in 1885: a drama. [San Francisco, Cal., W: Doxey, 1893.] 73 p. D. pap., $1.

A dramatic poem, giving an account of the exploits of the Apache chief Geronimo, in the summer of 1885. Wherever the Indians and the United States army figure in the work it is true to history.

Cushing, Paul. The great Chin episode. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1893. c. 4+256 p. D. (Macmillan's dollar novel ser.) cl., $1.

The "Chin episode" is a murder and the amateur and expert work which in the end traces the criminal and the motive. An army officer masquerading as butler in the household of an English aristocratic woman is the chief character.

Dale, Darley. Lottie's wooing. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1893.] c. 5+371 p. D. cl., $1.

Lottie is the leading spirit in her fatherless family. Having taken a house in the beautiful Derbyshire country of England, Lottie makes up her mind to marry the landlord for the good of her incompetent family. The tricks and manœuvres she resorts to in her scheme to win this middle aged, well-balanced man are the substance of a well-planned story. Needless to say she is successful and the confessions of the lovers at the end are quite amusing.

Daniel, Lizzie Cary, comp. Confederate scrap book: copied from a scrap-book kept by a young girl during and immediately after the war, with additions from war copies of the Southern Literary Messenger and Illustrated News, loaned by friends, and other selections as accredited; published for the benefit of the Memorial Bazaar held in Richmond, April 11, 1893. Richmond, Va., J. L. Hill Printing Co., 1893. 7+256 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

Contains the farewell addresses of Generals Lee, Mosby, Magruder, Kirby Smith, Commander Maury at sea, the last words written by Stonewall Jackson, etc., etc. Also, "The form of parole," "Reward for Mr. Davis," "The amnesty proclamation," the "Order forbidding wearing the gray," the "Jeff Davis bond," "The Richmond Examiner's famous convention of beasts," "The constitution of the Confederate States and that of the United States compared," and a number of Confederate war poems and songs.

Dement, Richmond Sheffield. Napoleon: a drama. Reading ed. with appendix. Chic., Knight, Leonard & Co., 105-107 Madison St., 1893. c. 6-183 p. por. il. D. cl., $1.50; leath., $2.50.

Written in blank verse. In the preface the author explains that he has perhaps not represented the popular Napoleon, but has endeavored to portray him as he is convinced he will appear at a not far-distant period. To this end he sometimes sacrifices historical accuracy, as his chief aim is to elucidate Napoleon's character and bring all within the compass of an hour's reading.

Dibble, F. L., M.D. Vagaries of sanitary science. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1893. c. 2-462 p. O. cl., $2.

The author claims that the whole sanitary movement thus far has no resemblance to scientific investigation. Much sanitary nonsense has been foisted on the people. He submits carefully investigated facts on air, water, soil, sewer gas, cemeteries, public funerals, meat, milk, filth and fecal diseases, typhoid fever, yellow fever, cholera, diphtheria, epidemics, boards of health and vital statistics. His purpose is to do away with the vague terrors people have about disease by teaching them their true nature and the means to avoid them scientifically.

Du Bose, J. Witherspoon. The life and times of William Lowndes Yancey: a history of political parties in the United States from 1834 to 1864, especially as to the origin of the Confederate States. Birmingham, Ala., Roberts & Son, 1892 [1893.] c. '92. 15+752 p. pors. O. cl., $3.50.

Mr. Yancey was born in Georgia, Aug. 10, 1814; was educated in the North and admitted to the bar in Abbeville, S. C.; he moved to Alabama in 1836, where he served in both branches of the legislature; he was also a member of Congress twice between 1844 and 1847; he was noted as an orator through the South, taking for nearly twenty years sides against Henry Washington Hilliard on leading Southern questions. He opposed the compromise measures of 1850 and was the leader of the secession movement of 1861; he died in 1863. This work reveals a strong and picturesque personality, and offers an interesting history of Southern thought, and the growth of parties and ideas, as seen from a Southern standpoint.

Dunscomb, S. Whitney, jr. Bankruptcy: a study in comparative legislation. N. Y., [Prof. Edwin R. A. Seligman, Columbia College,] 1893. 4-167 p. O. (Columbia College studies, v. 2, no. 2.) pap., $1.

Edwards, Tryon B., D.D. A dictionary of thoughts: a cyclopedia of laconic quotations, from the best authors, both ancient and modern; alphabetically arranged by subjects. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1893.] c. '91. 15+644 p. O. cl., $2.50.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., October 10, 1891, [1028.]

Elterlein, Ernst v. Beethoven's symphonies in their ideal significance; explained by Ernst von Elterlein; from the German, with the author's approval, by Francis Weber. N. Y., imported by C. Scribner's Sons, 1893. 12°, cl., $1.50.

Figuier, L. Joys beyond the threshold: a sequel to "The to-morrow of death;" tr. by Abby Langdon Alger. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1893. c. 4+321 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A further development of and comment on the consoling pictures of a future life, presented some twenty years ago in the author's "The to-morrow of death; or, the future life according to science." Mr. Figuier believes in "the principle of the permanence of the human soul after death, and its re-incarnation in a chain of new beings, whose successive links are unrolled in the bosom of ethereal space."

Finley, Martha F., [“Martha Farquharson,” pseud.] The tragedy of Wild River Valley. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1893.] 2+231 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Wild River Valley is supposed to be in the north-western farming country of the United States. A story of robbery and murder and cruelty of various kinds; not intended for young readers.

Fletcher, W. I., and Bowker, R. R. The annual literary index, 1892; including periodicals, American and English, essays, book-chapters, etc.; with author-index, bibliographies and necrology; ed. with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association, and of the Library Journal staff. N. Y., Office of The Publishers' Weekly, 1893. c. 8+224 p. O. cl., $3.50.

"The annual literary index" succeeds to and includes what has hitherto been known as the "Co-operative index to periodicals," the list of periodicals indexed being largely increased, and contains several new features, the most important of which is the first annual index to those portions of the books of the year which are practically monographs on special subjects. It is the first volume of a series which will include the annual Fletcher index as well as the annual "Poole," known as the "A. L. A. index." In the "Index to general literature" many books are covered issued previous to 1892, but not prepared for record in time to be included in the "A. L. A. index" volume. The lists of special bibliographies published during the year, and the necrology of authors deceased during the year, both new features, will be found very useful.

Florentine, Agnolo Firenzuola. Of the beauty of women: dialogue; from the Italian, by Clara Bell; with an introd. by Theo. Child. N. Y., imported by C. Scribner's Sons, 1893. 12°, cl., $2.25.

Franklin, B. The select works of Benjamin Franklin; incl. his autobiography; with notes and a memoir by Epes Sargent. [New issue.] Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1893. c. '93. 502 p. D. cl., 75 c.

Froebel, F. Froebel's letters; ed. with explanatory notes and additional matter by Arnold H. Heinemann. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1893. c. 5+182 p. por. D. cl., $1.25.

The universal spread of the kindergarten has given a new and vivid interest to all that relates to Froebel. In the selections from his letters never before published, just made by Mr. Heinemann, we are taken into the silent brain-chambers of the friend of children; and we see how he toiled painfully along the road pointed out by reasoning and experience before (in his simple phrase) he "found" the kindergarten. This book with its explanatory notes becomes at once a memoir and a history of the system.

Giles, F. R. The mysterious Mr. Jarvis. N. Y., W. D. Rowland, 1892 [1893.] c. '92. 223 p. D. (Leisure-time ser., no. 16.) pap., 25 c.

The scene is Chicago. Mr. Jarvis evidently stands for Christian K. Ross, of Philadelphia. He is seen following up a clue for the recovery of his lost son given him by Mrs. Mosher, whose son was one of the abductors of Charley Ross. The interest is in Ross senior's methods and the final developments in an extended search.

Gilman, S. C. The story of a western claim: a tale of how two boys solved the Indian question. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1893. c. 201 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The scene is on the frontier of Nebraska. The first chapter introduces an incident of Western life which illustrates the methods of claim-taking and the force of the pre-emption act. The successive chapters give in detail the experiences of two Eastern lads who took up a claim and interested themselves in the Indians of the locality.

Gmeiner, Rev. J. A popular defence of Christian doctrines. In 3 v. V. 1, Modern scientific views and Christian doctrines compared; v. 2, The spirits of darkness and their manifestations on earth; or, ancient and modern spiritualism. 3d ed.; v. 3, Emanuel, the saviour of the world. [New ed.] Milwaukee, Wis., Hoffmann Bros., [1893.] c. '84. '85. '88. 7+212; 7+267; 3+119 p. D. V. 1, 2. ea., cl., 60 c.; pap., 35 c.; v. 3, cl., 50 c.; pap., 25 c.

Goesbriand, L. de, (Bp.) The labors of the Apostles: their teaching of the nations. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1893. 12°, cl., net, $1.

Green, Anna Katharine, [now Mrs. Rohlfs.] Marked "personal." N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1893. c. 5+415 p. D. pap., 50 c.; cl., $1.

Twenty-five years back of the story lies the cause of the package marked "personal." Twelve years back lies a connecting link during the time of the New York draft riots of 1863. On his wedding-day, Samuel White, with everything to live for, is found dead in his room two hours after the ceremony. His son and young second wife employ friends and foes to get at the mystery of his death. The ingenious plot is built up with all the skill of the writer of "The Leavenworth case" to the very last chapter, which contains the surprising solutions of several mysteries.

The aim is to give an account of the functions of the organs of sense as found in man and the higher animals. While neither minuteness of detail in comparative physiology nor extended discussions of a psychological character can be expected in a single manual, the physiology of the senses is discussed as fully as space will allow. Simple experiments are suggested by which any one may test the statements for himself, and the book has been so written as to be readily understood by those who have not made physiology a special study. It will be found a suitable preparation for entering upon the questions that underlie physiological psychology. In the last chapter an attempt is made to throw light upon the physiological basis of sensation, in the hope of contributing to speculative thought on this problem.

Robert, the eldest son of Sir William Audley, Baronet of the Grange at Quarrymoor, incurs the displeasure of his father by marrying the national school teacher of Rook's End. Immediately after their marriage the baronet has a fatal accident, upon which Robert's wife makes some apparent overtures towards a reconciliation which only mask an attempt upon the old man's life. Her crime is defeated, however, by the clever action of the physician, Sir John Leppel, and she learns she has imperilled herself in this world and in the hereafter for naught.

Renton, W: Outlines of English literature. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1893. c. 10+248 p. D. (University extension manuals.) cl., net, $1.

English national literature is divided into two main periods, the first covering from 600-600, the second from 1600-1900. Each of these periods is subdivided into four ages. The specialties of the writers of every age are brought before the reader by an ingenious system of diagrams and their rank in literature indicated by large and small type. American literature is considered as an integral part of English literature; but an appendix gives a summary of its history and general characteristics with a conspectus of Scotch and American poetry in relation to English.

Arthur West Haddan was born in 1816 and died in 1873. He was deeply affected by the Oxford movement and did much work for the Anglo-Catholic Library. A second edition of his treatise was published in 1879 and one in 1883. It has for many years been a text-book in the General Theological Seminary in New York, in the department of ecclesiastical polity and law, in which Dr. Seabury is professor. It is hard now to procure the book, and to make its contents known to students these lectures were delivered. Dr. Seabury has not aimed to improve it, but for practical purposes teaches in an affirmative way, while the author's style is to a great extent negative and defensive. Haddan was a firm believer in the Apostolic Church.

In the series of little books, issued under the general title, "Stories from Scribner," the purpose has been to gather together some of the best and most entertaining short stories written for Scribner's Magazine, during the past few years, and to preserve them in dainty volumes grouped under attractive subjects, and decorated by a few illustrations to brighten the pages. The set as arranged consists of six volumes, the first, "Stories of New York," containing From four to six: a comedietta, by Annie Elliot; The commonest possible story, by Bliss Perry; The end of the beginning, by G. A. Hibbard; A Puritan ingénue, by J. S. Wood; Mrs. Manstey's view, by Edith Wharton.

Tirebuck, W: Sweetheart Gwen: a Welsh idyll. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1893. c. 5+277 p. D. cl., $1.

Sweetheart Gwen was a charming Welsh girl whose naive simplicity and winning personality made her the idol of her young cousin Mark. It is he who gives his first impressions of Wales and Ty Cramed, Gwen's home, introduces a sad episode in her life, traces the cause of her ardent love for a childish lover, tells the happenings of rare visits to the Welsh country in the inimitable dialect of the country folk, and his inability to forget or replace an ideal heroine whose final fate is a mystery.

Intended to furnish a thorough course in all those portions of arithmetic which are required for admission to any college or scientific school. The pupil is assumed to have already studied the more elementary parts of the subject in a text-book of lower grade; and only enough examples are given in the earlier chapters to afford material for a review.

Whishaw, F. J. Out of doors in Tsarland: a record of the seeings and doings of a wanderer in Russia. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1893. 4+380 p. il. D. cl., $2.

A book about Russia in which nothing is said about the Eastern question or nihilism or the horrors of Siberia. Gives realistic pictures of a typical Russian village and takes us sight seeing in the streets of St. Petersburg. The greater part of the book describes hunting adventures, from the shooting of woodcock and snipe to the pursuit of elk and bear and a wolf battue. Angling in Russian waters forms the subject of a long chapter.

White, Caroline Earle. A modern Agrippa. [Also] Patience Barker: a tale of old Nantucket. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1893. c. 3-285 p. D. cl., $1.

The time of the first story is 1878. Edith Merton becomes possessed in a very remarkable way of a small mirror, which instead of reflecting the evil thoughts and desires of those who approached it, as did Agrippa's, reflects only her own shortcomings. This wonderful glass plays a most important part in the romance of a New York belle. The second story tells of the seven years' wooing of Captain Barker's daughter.

Yonge, Charlotte M., and Coleridge, Christabel R. Strolling players: a harmony of contrasts. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1893. 3+349 p. D. cl., $1.

The story opens with a business failure by which Sir Lewis Willingham, his young wife and brothers and sisters are reduced to comparative poverty. The Willinghams have always been ardent in amateur theatricals, all are young and enthusiastic, and they form themselves into a company of strolling players to give entertainments at the homes of their wealthy acquaintances. Their experiences are varied, and they learn that acting in play and acting in earnest are very different things. English country life is pleasantly pictured.

PICK-UPS.

A BREADWINNER.—Aspiring Young Author: I have here a few pastels in prose, which I venture to think will create a sensation in the literary world. I have tried to throw into them the divine afflatus of poetry, tinged with the tragic pathos of human life. Editor of "The Literary Vortex" (glancing over the pages): Hm! Afraid that sort of stuff won't go any more. Nothin' in it in the first place, and done to death. Sorry, but—tell you what, though! suppose you let us print it in our funny column as a burlesque on the prose pastel business! It'll be the screamin'est thing we've had in a long time. "What'll you pay?" "Three dollars." "Cash down?" "Yes." "Gimme the money."—New York Tribune.

"GAVE IT AWAY."—In March, directly after Tait, Sons & Co. had published Edgar Fawcett's latest book, a Boston drummer called upon the proprietor of a large New York book and stationery store, and, as they were parting, facetiously inquired: "By the way, Mr. Blank, have you any 'Loaded Dice'?" Mr. Blank, whose sense of humor is strongly developed, answered: "Yes, certainly;" and turning to one of the clerks of the stationery department, said to him in mock seriousness: "Mr. Cohen, please put up 'Loaded Dice' for Mr. Boston." Mr. Cohen at once made a diligent search in every drawer, shelf, show-case and bin in his department, and after about ten minutes' fruitless search approached his employer, and with some embarrassment whispered into his ear: "Mr. Blank, where do we keep the loaded dice now?"

LIST-BOY.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 3, 1893.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE FUTURE OF ENGLISH LETTERS.

UNDER the above caption W. Morris Colles contributes to the May issue of the New Review an article that will be read with as great interest by the book trade as by the literary workers, especially such as have yet their reputations to make. Mr. Colles is emphatically optimistic, contending that there are fabulous prizes in store for the successful writer and at no distant day. "We are face to face," he thinks, "with a new cosmopolitanism which will work numberless revolutions," every one of them tending to benefit authors, and, presumably, the book trade as well.

"The current of thought is being directed into new and broader channels," which are to lead to results not merely beyond the dreams of avarice, but beyond the imaginations of professed romancers. In the literary world everything is to be changed; there will be a new heaven and a new earth, and in the bliss of incalculable sales the miseries of Grub Street will be remembered no more. "In the coming time, when the pitiful circulations of the past will belong to ancient history, when the world's favorites will be read by millions of eager readers, we may rest assured that we shall have little reason to regret the old vogue."

To the American it must be exceedingly gratifying to learn that much, if not most of the good predicted by Mr. Colles is to be the direct outcome of the American Copyright act.

Literary property being now protected on both sides of the Atlantic, the popular writer of the near future will find himself with an audience more than double that he had before international copyright became a fact—indeed, there is absolutely no limit to the numbers the coming author may address. Meantime, however, Mr. Colles gently warns writers not to expect fortune to immediately flow in upon the British author from America. The total sale of British books in the United States, instead of increasing during, say, the next five years, is likely to diminish; for even favorite authors will not sell so freely at a dollar or dollar and a half as at ten or twenty cents. There has been some misunderstanding on this point, and Mr. Colles does well to give a caution. Moreover, now that the price has gone up, "American readers are beginning to be nice about their fiction." Formerly they seem to have been content with quantity; now they are looking for quality. Yet here again the fates are working in the best interests of the author. The Copyright act having shown that "there is no room in the United States for the mild domestic novel" so much in favor in the past, British novelists will brace themselves for higher achievements. They will thus not only reap a greater pecuniary reward, but have that nobler intellectual satisfaction which is the crowning glory of the literary worker. Again, "the Americans will have nothing to do with the three-volume novel. This may seem hard, but it only means that the British novelist, often to his own immense advantage, must condense. The writers who wilfully insist on having their own way in regard to length are likely to have their books returned by American publishers with monotonous uniformity marked 'no offers.'" This sort of treatment will bring the most headstrong to their senses and redound to the profit of all concerned.

Mr. Colles, of course, dwells almost exclusively upon the advantages the British authors may derive from the reform in our copyright laws, but naturally what may be true of the English author must also be so of the American. Much of what Mr. Colles sees in the future state of the condition of the author may be exaggerated through his optimistic glasses, but we feel that he is not unprophetic in outlining the good times ahead for all concerned in bookmaking. Authors and publishers have at last solid ground under them, and in their prosperity the whole book trade is bound to participate. If the bookseller will but educate himself to know his position and rights and grievances, and formulate the latter, and struggle to obtain the one and abolish the other, as a unit and collectively, these good times will be found closer at hand than many may now think.

SPEAKING OF DRUMMERS.

BY ONE OF THEM.

THE first requisite in a "drummer" or "travelling agent," in modern times, is a stock of good-nature. Whatever the storm within, outwardly he must be as placid and calm as a sunbeam. A friend of ours recently related his experience. In one of our large Western cities he lost a train, and rather than lie idle for half a day determined to call on a large firm, the chief of which had the reputation of being a raging hyena in his relation to drummers. Hence all gave the man a wide berth. Our young friend, however, with not the slightest expectation of making a sale, and to pass away the hours of waiting, ventured to call upon the buying partner. He found him in his office, his feet in a chair, quietly smoking his after-dinner cigar. Showing his card, the drummer said: "I have the honor, sir, to represent the firm of Hopkinson, Jones & Brown." With an ugly and supercilious glare, and in a sarcastic manner, the lordly man replied, the smoke curling over his head, "Well, young man, I have no objection to your representing the firm of Hopkinson, Jones & Brown, and you may represent them till doomsday for all I care. I don't want you." Quicker than a flash, in the most pleasant manner and with inimitable grace, the young man touched his hat to his majesty, and answered: "I am quite delighted, sir, to hear that you have no objection to my representing the firm of Hopkinson, Jones & Brown, for, sir, had I the remotest idea that you did object to my representing the firm of Hopkinson, Jones & Brown I should not sleep a wink to-night. Good afternoon." As he quietly turned to walk out of the office the chief called out, "Come back, here, young man! Come back! Show me your samples!" The result was a sale of nearly a thousand dollars and a good customer secured.

CATCHING A BOOKWORM'S HEART.

AN amusing story of how a confirmed old bachelor, who combined with his bachelorhood the qualities of the bibliomaniac, came finally to marry, is told by an English newspaper. It appears that the lonely old bookworm employed an old servant to take care of his rooms. Upon her fell the task of arranging and dusting the library, and she soon came to be smitten with a taste for reading. She began to spend all her earnings in buying books, and, strange to say, they were old books that she bought and read. One afternoon she came in with a parcel of volumes picked up from the book-stalls. Out of curiosity the master turned over the leaves of her treasures, and we can well imagine the more or less supercilious smile that played upon his countenance as he thought of the humorous phase of this old woman turned bibliophile. Suddenly his face lighted up.

"How much did you give for this?" said he, picking up a volume with great eagerness.

"Fifteen pence," was the answer.

"Fifteen pence? Why, this work is worth £1000!" cried the collector. He reflected, when too late, how stupid he had been to speak, and in vain tried to recall his words. "I will give you 50s. for it," said he.

"Sir, you have just told me it was worth £1000."

The old creature was not to be cheated, and the bookworm at last offered £100. It was a first edition, extremely rare, of Montaigne. He was a good buyer, but his servant would not take a fraction less than £1000, which sum was more than he could afford. That night the connoisseur dreamed of Montaigne. At last he could resist no longer. At any price he must have the old book. "This woman takes good care of me; she appears to be smitten with the same passion for old books," said he to himself next. "Why should I not marry her? I should then have my Montaigne."

So he went to her the following day and "popped the question." She accepted him, and they were married.

The clever old dame brought him the book as a dowry.

AN ECCENTRIC BOOKSELLER.—GEN. JOHN M. CORSE.

GEN. JOHN M. CORSE, who died recently in Boston, according to the Muscatine Journal, was an interesting character to Iowa soldiers and incidentally to all who hear the familiar gospel hymn, "Hold the Fort." Corse went out as colonel of the Sixth Iowa, but later he was promoted to a generalship. General Sherman had placed him once in charge of Altoona Pass, in Georgia, and one day he noticed that the Confederates had set in to capture the post and bag Corse's little army. From Kenesaw, in the remote distance, "Uncle Billy" signalled to "hold the fort; reinforcements coming." From height to height the signal was repeated till it was received by the Iowa general. Telling his men to fight as long as they could, and then ten minutes longer, he inspired them with the spirit of demons. He was wounded several times in the battle, but he had been victorious. Next morning he signalled back to General Sherman: "I have lost an ear and a cheek, but can lick all h— yet." He was a man of marked eccentricities. When he returned from school before the war, and was about to enter partnership in a book-store with his father in Burlington, he objected to having the firm "J. L. Corse & Son," and insisted on it being "J. M. Corse & Father."

OBITUARY NOTES.

JAMES A. SADLIER, of the firm of Sadlier & Co., Catholic book publishers, of New York City, died of pneumonia at the Hotel Metropole, May 24, aged 49 years. Mr. Sadlier was a nephew of Dennis and James Sadlier, who in 1836 founded the old publishing house of D. & J. Sadlier at 33 Barclay Street. He conducted, for a number of years, a branch of this house in Montreal, finally succeeding his uncle James as proprietor of the main house. When his brother, William H. Sadlier, died in 1887 he joined his brother's widow in managing the concern at 11 Barclay Street, which is devoted exclusively to the publication of Catholic school-books. Mr. Sadlier got his early education at the School of the Christian Brothers in this city, and was graduated later from the Jesuit College, in Montreal. He became intimately acquainted with many of the higher prelates of the Catholic Church in Canada. He was unmarried.

The limit of membership in this association is 1500, and if the number of members increase as rapidly as this, the limit will soon be reached.

The trade is again reminded that the annual meeting of the association will take place on the evening of the 9th inst. at the trade salesrooms of Bangs & Co., 739 Broadway, New York. As business of special importance is to come before that meeting a full attendance is desirable.

NORTHWESTERN BOOKSELLERS' AND NEWS-DEALERS' ASSOCIATION.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., May 16, 1893.

To the Book and News Trade of the Northwest:

As the secretary of above-named association I am desirous of obtaining the names and addresses of all booksellers and newsdealers in the Northwest, especially Wisconsin and Minnesota, for the purpose of completing a directory of the trade of the Northwest.

By giving the above immediate attention they will not only lessen my labor and confer a favor on the association but obtain a lasting benefit for themselves.

CHAS. D. RAYMER.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

HENRY C. LEA has nearly completed a "History of Auricular Confession and Absolution."

EDMUND GOSSE has collected another volume of his recent contributions to periodicals, which will have the title, "Questions at Issue." It will be issued in style about uniform with his "Gossip in a Library."

SHELDEN L. WHITCOMB, Fellow in Literature at Columbia College, is preparing a "Chronology of American Literature" on the model of Mr. Ryland's most useful chronological tables of English literature.

W. B. YEATS is preparing an anthology of Irish ballads for the forthcoming series of the Library of Ireland. The first book of the series to be issued will be Thomas Davis' unpublished work, "The Patriot Parliament of 1691."

PROF. McMaster, we learn, has made such progress with the fourth volume of his "History of the People of the United States" that he expects to see it in the printer's hands in the fall. It relates to the period between 1812 and 1830.

LANGDON MITCHELL, the clever son of Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, a young man whose poems evoked some admiration several years ago, is about to bring out a new book. This will contain many new poems and the best of those already published.

MR. HENRY JONES, better known as "Cavendish," the authority on whist, is at present in this country. Mr. Jones was born in London, England, November 2, 1831. He studied medicine and was a practising physician for about twenty years. He devoted much of his time to the study of his favorite game at cards, and about the year 1854 he founded a "Little School" for whist-players. The notes and records of the long succession of play at this place were all preserved and formed the basis of his book, "Cavendish on Whist," published in 1862. This publication was called out by Dr. Pole's suggestion, in 1861, that the world of whist-players would be glad to get some printed standard of the proper play of possible hands.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

MARGARET DELAND has finished a new novel, which is to be published serially in The Atlantic under the title of "Philip and His Wife."

RICHARD HARDING DAVIS' description of "Three English Race Meetings," illustrated by William Small, one of the cleverest of the British artists in his line, will appear in the July Harper.

UNDER the title "The Opinions of a Philosopher" Robert Grant has begun in the June Scribner a sequel to his "Reflections of a Married Man." The papers will be issued with illustrations.

THE opening chapters of R. D. Blackmore's new story, "Perlycross," appear in the June number of Macmillan's Magazine. "Perlycross" is a romance of the west of England just before the Reform bill of 1832.

WE regret to learn that the publication of that exceedingly useful index, The Weekly Review, has been suspended. It seems to have been one of those aids that every one wanted and but few were willing to support financially.

THE Critic of May 17 gives the result of the voting by its subscribers on the question, Which are the best ten American books? Emerson's "Essays" head the list, with 512 votes, and then follow Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter," with 493; Longfellow's "Poems," with 444; Mrs. Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," with 434; Dr. Holmes' "Autocrat," with 388; Irving's "Sketch-Book," with 307; Lowell's "Poems," with 269, and then Whittier, Wallace's "Ben Hur," and Motley's "Dutch Republic."

THE first number of Household News, the new monthly magazine edited by Mrs. S. T. Rorer, is announced for July 1. It will treat of cookery, health, diet, the nursery, kindergarten, architecture, decoration, book reviews and matters in general. Mrs. Rorer is a popular teacher and lecturer on cooking, and she has associated with her as collaborators a corps of distinguished people in their special departments. The magazine will be published in Philadelphia by the Household News Company, Limited.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

MR. C. GLUCKSMANN, of the Berlin Photographic Company, sailed for Europe for a brief stay, on June 3.

A VOLUME on "Authors Identified with Newark" [N. J.] will be published by Mrs. Julia Keese Colles, of that city.

F. T. NEELY, Chicago, announces that he is about concluding the purchase of all plates and copyrights of Opie Read's books.

THE Seaside Library is neither returnable nor exchangeable. The failure of the United States Book Co. left millions of copies of this library in the hands of the dealers.

ALBERT SCOTT & Co., of Chicago, will publish at once Madison's "Journal of the Constitutional Convention." It will be given in one volume with a full index.

FUNK & WAGNALLS have just issued another volume of Dr. Joseph Parker's "The People's Bible." The volume contains more than fifty chapters expository of the text according to Mark and Luke.

MR. S. E. BRIGGS, manager of the New York office of the Fleming H. Revell Company, sailed for England on May 18 by the Augusta Victoria. He expects to return early in July, after brief visits to the principal publishing centres of Great Britain.

WILLIAM L. STONE, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., announces "Ballads of the Burgoyne Campaign," annotated by himself. The volume will include a new poem (not a ballad) by the Rev. O. C. Auringer, entitled "The Episode of Jane McCrea."

A VOLUME of "Williams Verse" has been compiled from the pages of various periodicals conducted in past years by Williams students. It contains 159 poems, and is coming almost immediately from the Knickerbocker press (George P. Putnam's Sons).

WORTHINGTON CO. (J. J. Little, receiver) have issued in the Rose Library "A Southern Heritage," a story of American Southern society, by Wm. Horace Brown; also, in the Fair Library, Ohnet's "The Ironmaster."

GEORGE GOTTSBERGER PECK, New York, has just issued a one-volume edition of "Aspasia," by Robert Hamerling, a natural and well-written story, reproducing the social life of Greece in the days of Pericles and Sophocles.

CHARLES G. CHASE, of Boston, has written and published "That Old Man and His Dream," a small quarto of illustrations in bluish-green tint, pertaining to the face on the mountain at Franconia, N. H. A slight, fanciful text, printed in dark red, accompanies the pictures.

TAIT, SONS & CO. contributed to the New York Press Club Fair copies of the works of twenty celebrated authors, each book bearing the author's signature. An opportunity of enriching their libraries by autograph volumes has never been afforded in this city, or indeed elsewhere, to a like extent.

WILBUR B. KETCHAM announces "Revelation by Character: illustrated from Old Testament lives," by Robert Tuck; "The Epistles of Paul the Apostle: a sketch of their origin and contents," by George G. Findlay; and a new (one volume) edition of Rev. Dr. Fraser's "Synoptical Lectures on the Books of Holy Scripture."

ESTES & LAURIAT, we understand, were the first publishers to be in readiness with their exhibit at the Columbian Exposition. Their latest and best publications are shown off in ebony black cases and form a noticeable and attractive feature in the department in which they are displayed. The exhibit is in charge of Mr. C. E. Lauriat.

THE CLEVELAND PUBLISHING CO., 19 Union Square, New York City, have just issued a book by Irene Osgood, entitled "The Shadow of Desire." It is a story of a beautiful young American girl who fortunately marries a very good Englishman whose influence educates her and finally teaches her to control her very unruly and spasmodic affections.

JOHN A. TAYLOR, of the firm of John A. Taylor & Co., of Toronto and New York, left his office at 10 Vandewater Street, New York, May 16, and has not been heard from since. Mr. Taylor is about thirty-six years old and lives in Toronto, where he has a wife and five children. He was a man of temperate habits and no reason for his mysterious disappearance is known.

HOWARD LOCKWOOD & CO., New York, have just issued the ninth part of their valuable "American Dictionary of Printing and Bookmaking," covering the alphabet from Mus to Persian. This excellent book is issued in quarterly parts and is presented without cost to subscribers to the American Bookmaker, a journal which has been steadily growing in value and importance.

"TALES FROM TOWN TOPICS," No. 8, including a $1000 prize story, entitled "Six Months in Hades," has just been published by the Town Topics Publishing Co., 21 W. 23d Street, New York, and proves to be rich with the humor and spice characteristic of the society journal from which it takes its name. The special novel is bright, and the selected matter is most agreeable summer reading.

THE trade will bear in mind that there are two books entitled "Japan as We Saw It." The one is by Robert S. Gardiner, and was published last November by the Rand-Avery Supply Co., of Boston. The other is by M. Bickersteth, with a preface by the Bishop of Exeter, and has just been issued by Sampson Low, Marston & Co. It is unfortunate that the same title should have been chosen for two different books on the same subject.

MISS LARCOM intended to write a sequel to her "New England Girlhood," giving such facts and experiences as would interest those who read her books. She gave much thought to it, but never wrote it. We learn from Houghton, Mifflin & Co. that the book will be written by a near relative of Miss Larcom, who is peculiarly qualified for the task, and who will be aided by friends to whom Miss Larcom talked very fully concerning the proposed book.

GINN & CO. have made arrangements with Alphonse Daudet for a volume of selections from his works and he has written a piece specially for this volume. The book is designed for use in high school and college classes, and will be specially annotated for this use by Professor Frank

W. Freeborn, of the Boston Latin School. They will publish in September Tacitus' "Dialogus de Oratoribus," edited with prolegomena, critical and exegetical commentary, indexes and a bibliography, by Alfred Gudeman, of Johns Hopkins University.

A SERIES of six volumes from Harper & Brothers, to be sold at the Columbian Exposition as souvenirs, will be known as the Distaff Series. They have not only been written and edited but have been printed and bound by women, and the designs of the covers were made by women. Two of the six will soon be ready. They are "The Higher Education of Women," edited by Anna C. Brackett, and the "Literature of Philanthropy," edited by Frances A. Goodale. The entire set has been compiled under the supervision of Mrs. Frederick P. Bellamy.

AN interesting addition has just been made to the Baedeker Guide-Books, in a new volume devoted to the United States, including, also, an excursion into Mexico. It has been prepared by Mr. J. F. Muirhead, the compiler of Baedeker's "Guide to Great Britain," and the general manager of the English editions of the Baedeker Guides, and is issued by Charles Scribner's Sons, the American agents of the Baedeker Guides. Mr. Muirhead has spent three years in this country, traversing every section of it and gathering his material with the utmost care. The volume contains numerous maps and is fully up to date. As a feature of special interest the volume contains introductory chapters on "A Short History of American Politics," by J. B. McMaster; "Constitution and Government of the United States," by James Bryce; "Physiography of America," by Prof. N. S. Shaler, and other subjects by equally eminent authorities. American readers will be much interested in seeing our own country treated with the same fulness and exactness of detail that they have found in the Baedeker foreign guide-books.

THE American Protective Society of Authors held morning and evening sessions on May 18 in Chicago to discuss the wrongs of authors, the copyright laws and the measures needed to put author and publisher on an equal footing. Mrs. M. D. Lincoln, who writes under the pseudonym of "Bessie Beech," presided, and in a short address described the aims of the organization and the methods by which it proposes to protect writers. Addresses were delivered by Mrs. Katherine Hodges, secretary of the society, on "Protection of Brain Work"; by Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, who in a novelette entitled "Between Two Fires" described the author as beset on one side by the fraudulent publisher, and on the other side by the plagiarist; and by Emily Thornton Charles ("Emily Hawthorne"), who spoke of "Copyright Laws and Their Effect on American Literature." Other papers were read by Mrs. Lelia P. Roby, Mrs. Kate Brownlee Sherwood, Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher, "Grace Greenwood" and other women writers. Both morning and evening sessions were well attended.

THE CENTURY CO. have just issued the bound half yearly volume of the The Century, containing the numbers from November, 1892, to April, 1893. Like its predecessors, the volume is a veritable treasure-house of literature. Fiction holds an important place in the table of contents, being represented by such writers as T. B. Aldrich, Octave Thanet, Brander Matthews, Edward Eggleston, F. Hopkinson Smith, Grace King, Thomas Nelson Page and Mark Twain. Among the serials are Mrs. Burton Harrison's "Sweet Bells Out of Tune," illustrated by C. D. Gibson; Wolcott Balestier's "Benefits Forgot" and Dr. Washington Gladden's "Cosmopolis City Club." Biographical papers are numerous and interesting Tennyson, Browning, Whittier, Curtis, Liszt, Massenet and Millet are among the subjects, and excellent portraits accompany every article. There are finely illustrated papers on the World's Fair, the trial of the Chicago anarchists and topics of general interest; a vivid account of the Paris Commune, by Archibald Forbes; descriptive papers by T. A. Janvier and the Pennells; and poems by Kipling, Aldrich, James Whitcomb Riley and others. The departments are full of interest.

FOREIGN NOTES.

ZOLA'S new novel, "Doctor Pascal," is just coming out in book form.

THE tercentenary of the birth of old Izaak Walton is to be celebrated in England on the 9th of August next. The spot is Stafford. Representatives from all the English angling clubs are to attend this merry-making.

MR. STEVENSON'S book on the recent Samoan troubles—"A Footnote to History"—has been burned in Germany, and Tauchnitz, who published it, has been heavily fined. The author's narrative was severely critical of German conduct in Samoa.

T. FISHER UNWIN will publish immediately two new volumes of the Children's Library. One is an edition of Taylor's translation of "The Pentamerone, or, the story of stories," revised and edited by Miss Helen Zimmern, with reproductions of the original designs by George Cruikshank. The other is an English adaptation for children, executed by R. Eivind, of thirty-eight stories from the Kalevala, the illustrations being derived from Finnish sources.

THE Japanese have learned another "trick" of civilization. As Japan has not yet made arrangements with other nations for the protection of their authors' rights the Japanese publishers and booksellers promptly reprint any work for which there may be a demand. So conscientious are they in reprinting that they add even the name and address of the printer of the original. As the reprints sell for considerably less than half of the price of the original, and as the Japs believe in patronizing the home market, English and American publishers will find them poor customers until they have an "awakening of the moral sense."

THE collection of book-plates is now a recognized pastime, and there are half a dozen books devoted to the sport and as many dealers making a specialty of ex-libris. The latest development in this taste is highly comic. A Parisian dealer, M. L. Joly, noting with regret that many celebrated people of the past had no book-plates, has kindly determined to supply them. He announces a series of "Ex-libris imaginaires et supposés de personnages célèbres anciens et modernes," and he begins with the book-plates of Poe and of Brillat-Savarin—a strange conjunction. Probably we shall have in time the plate which identified the owner of the nine books of the Sibyl.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CONCORD, N. H.—W. S. Siegel, of Louisville, Conn., formerly manager of the book department of the Baptist Book Co. of that place, has taken charge of book and stationery department in the store of Woodbury E. Hunt.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Wayside Publishing Company, 142 and 144 Worth Street, is another offshoot of the new Lovell combination.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Commercial Advertiser says: "J. Willson Wilson, the noted stationer of Harlem, was once Brentano's head clerk. He began in a modest way on his own account, and has now one of the finest establishments in the upper part of the city. Personally, he is most entertaining and popular. He can imitate to perfection the famous tragedians, and his mimetic powers are great. A Scotchman by birth, he came here many years ago and concluded to remain. His fund of humor is inexhaustible, and no one ever finds him unruffled or unable to indulge in badinage."

NEW YORK CITY.—Owing to the mysterious disappearance of John A. Taylor, several of his creditors have obtained attachments against his estate.

NEW YORK CITY.—Macmillan & Co. will remove to their new headquarters in No. 66 Fifth Avenue, between Twelfth and Thirteenth Streets, some time this month.

PORTLAND, ME.—George Gladstone Craven is now with the well-known Stevens & Jones Co., wholesale and retail stationers.

PORTLAND, ORE.—Stuart & Thompson, book-sellers and stationers, have incorporated under the name of Stuart & Thompson Company—E. C. Stuart, president; J. L. Thompson, vice-president; and E. H. Kilham (for the past ten years with J. K. Gill & Co.) secretary. The new corporation will continue as heretofore to handle a complete line of books and stationery for the wholesale and retail trade. Mr. E. C. Stuart is now east for a few weeks stay in Chicago and New York. Mr. Thompson expects to be in Chicago during July, and hopes to meet many old friends in the book line.

STOCKTON, CAL.—Herbert Baldwin, book-seller and stationer, has sold out.

WILLIAMSPORT, PA.—John M. Dean, the well-known bookseller, we are glad to hear, is recovering from a serious fall through which he sustained a fracture of several ribs.

WINNIPEG, CANADA.—Winnipeg, according to Books and Notions, is to have an important addition to its book and stationery establishments. The new firm will be known as Hart & McPherson, the principals of which will be Mr. J. A. Hart, late of Ferguson & Co., of that city, and Mr. McPherson, who has been for some years the Canadian representative of Wm. Collins, Sons & Co., of Glasgow. The premises formerly occupied by Furner's millinery establishment on Main Street, south of Portage Avenue, have been secured by Messrs. Hart & McPherson. A new front has been put in the store and it is now being fitted up in first-class style, to be ready for opening about the middle of May. Mr. Hart, who is a nephew of Rev. Prof. Hart, is well known to the people of Winnipeg, having for years been connected with the book and stationery business here. His father is widely known as one of the leading stationers in Eastern Canada. Mr. McPherson is also well and favorably known to many Winnipeg business houses.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as "not having been received."

Or,

A Return to Earth.

(Ready July 1.)

A PSYCHIC STORY of Intense Interest. By ANNA C. REIFSNIDER, Author of "Unforgiven," "How She Earned It," Etc.

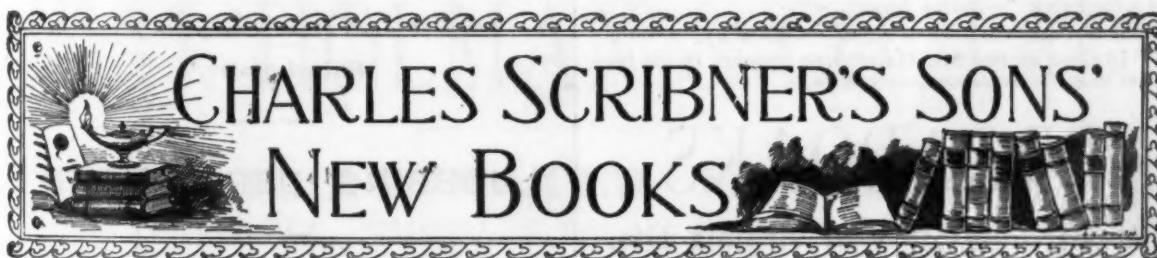

Do human souls return to earth? The great question solved by a new and entirely original literary method. Neither reincarnation nor transmigration is advocated in this strange story, but the rapidly unfolding incidents show a revisit to this earth to complete an unfinished work.

One Poet lives and blooms in thought for a space, and dies. A Philosopher with loftier strains of musical wisdom sometime after appears, as if the Poet were the youth, the Philosopher the finished man, whose harp strings are fetched from a higher heaven. He now sings of the future, as he came out of the past. Know ye not that the Poet and Philosopher are one and the same, finishing his earth work upon a higher plane? Bringing wisdom down from heaven, thoughts from beyond the stars, he stoops to earth again and, guiding some material hand, finishes what he had left undone.

A renowned teacher of oratory has a peculiarly attractive and ambitious girl under his training. He dies before she is fitted for the stage, but his only child, a daughter, pays for her instructions under a famous London teacher. This daughter has a mystery connected with her birth, which her father did not reveal to her before his death, and which mars her young life. Salome, the actress, writes a wonderful play which she claims was dictated or written through her by her dead teacher. This play furnishes the dénouement of the story.

For sale by all booksellers, or will be sent on receipt of price. Paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

ST. LOUIS.

An Adventure in Photography.

By OCTAVE THANET. Illustrated from Photographs by the Adventurers. 12mo, $1.50 net.

A bright, vivacious narrative, with a spice of humor and a dash of high spirits, of the adventures, successes and failures of two amateur photographers who are forced to depend largely upon their own ingenuity. Their entertaining experiences show what may be done by any amateur without a very large expenditure of time or money. The illustrations from their own portfolios are an unusually interesting feature of the book.

Arthur Bonnicastle.

By Dr. J. G. HOLLAND. Scribner's Yellow Paper Cover Series. 12mo, 50 cents.

So great popularity attended the reissue recently in paper covers of Dr. Holland's novel, "Sevenoaks," that his equally successful story, "Arthur Bonnicastle," is now brought out in similar cheap and convenient form.

Theism.

By ROBERT FLINT, DD., LL.D., Professor of Divinity in the University of Edinburgh. 12mo, $1.50 net.

A new edition at a greatly reduced price of a standard theological work, the high value of which has long been tested by clergymen, educators and students.

The Profession of Bookselling,

A Handbook of Practical Hints for the Apprentice and Bookseller.

By A. GROWOLL,
Managing Editor of "The Publishers' Weekly."

"The author has collected a stupendous mass of information on his subject, and manages to impart his knowledge with admirable brevity and clearness. . . . It treats of everything that he ought to know, and of most things in which he can be even remotely interested. . . . If accuracy and fulness of information avail, the young man who masters Mr. Growoll's book can scarcely help making his mark in the world."—London Publishers' Circular.

"A volume, attractively printed, that deserves a place among reference-books by reason of its bibliography. Here are lists of works fitted to impart to the bookseller (and to the general reader) a general knowledge of the field of English and American literature, of Continental literature, of the classical and oriental, etc.; lists of trade catalogues, of library catalogues, of trade journals and literary journals; and a broad reference library. . . . For its main purpose this is an excellent manual."—The Nation.

"Booksellers in this country [England] will find this work both useful and entertaining."—London Bookman.

NOW READY:

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX.

Including Periodicals, American and English, Essays, Book-Chapters, Etc., Special Bibliographies and Necrology of Authors. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX for 1892 is a new enterprise, complementing the "Annual American Catalogue" of books published in 1892 by indexing (1) articles in periodicals published in 1892; (2) essays and book-chapters in composite books of 1892; (3) authors of periodical articles and essays; (4) special bibliographies of 1892; (5) authors deceased in 1892. The two volumes together make a complete record of the literary product of the year.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX for 1892 forms the first supplement both to the new five-yearly volume (1887-1891) of Poole's Index to Periodical Literature and to the new A. L. A. Index to essays and book-chapters of Mr. Fletcher.

Bound uniform with Poole's Index and the "A. L. A. Index," in one vol., cloth, $3.50.

New and Powerful Fiction.

The Last Sentence.

By MAXWELL GRAY, author of "The Silence of Dean Maitland," "The Reproach of Annesley," "In the Heart of the Storm," etc. Illustrated by A. G. Reinhart. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"A story strong in plot and character-drawing, rich in the accessions of an abundant imagination, and its central movement has a psychological potency that it would be difficult to match in the writings of any novelist since Hawthorne. 'The Last Sentence' may be, without reservation, accepted as one of the really significant novels of the year. It will bear more than a single reading, and its merits are more likely to be appreciated at a third than a first perusal."—Boston Beacon.

Dearest.

By MRS. FORRESTER, author of "I Have Lived and Loved," "My Hero," "Diana Carew," "Fair Women," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

"Written with the good taste and the good breeding which are characteristic of all Mrs. Forrester's works. It gives us two types which reveal at once the author's knowledge of the world and her self-restraint—for either the one or the other might easily have run into caricature in less skilful hands."—London World.

The Doomswoman.

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON, author of "Hermia Suydam," "Los Cerritos," "A Question of Time," etc. 16mo, cloth ornamental, $1.00.

"Full of incident, passion, color and character."—The Critic.

"A powerful dramatic representation of old California life."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Kitty's Father.

By FRANK BARRETT, author of "The Admirable Lady Biddy Fane," "A Smuggler's Secret," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00. Holyrood Series, paper, 50 cents.

"Mr. Barrett has the true gift of the story-teller. He seldom fails to interest his readers."—Speaker.

"A thoroughly absorbing plot, well worked out, and interesting right up to the last page."—Punch.

Oriole's Daughter.

By JESSIE FOTHERGILL, author of "The First Violin," "A March in the Ranks," "Healey," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

"Unquestionably an artistic piece of fiction."—Boston Beacon.

"In fine, 'Oriole's Daughter' is a book which will maintain the author's reputation for refined portraiture and sound workmanship."—Athenaeum.

Cosmopolis.

By PAUL BOURGET. Authorized edition. Large 12mo, cloth gilt, $1.50; paper, 50 cents. Holyrood Series.

"'Cosmopolis' is emphatically a purposeful novel."—Chautauquan.

"A work of extraordinary power and deep interest."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

"Bourget has given us a series of portraits which are elaborated and refined. . . . 'Cosmopolis' is an admirable piece of portraiture in all ways."—New York Tribune.

Christine.

By ADELINE SERGEANT, author of "Beyond Recall," "A Life Sentence," etc. 12mo, cloth ornamental, $1.00; paper, 50 cents. Holyrood Series.

"A healthful, kindly story."—Christian Union.

"'Christine' has a finished quality that in the artistic sense is exceedingly agreeable. The narrative has plenty of effective contrasts, and the descriptive passages are admirable in suggestiveness."—Boston Beacon.
